The present invention generally relates to an image processing apparatus, an image processing method, and a recording medium, and more particularly to an image processing apparatus for processing a still image or a moving image, an image processing method for processing a still image or a moving image, and a recording medium in which an image processing program for causing a computer to perform the image processing method is recorded. Various image processing methods, such as compression encoding of an image, image restoration, and color conversion, have been conventionally used for processing of an image. In recent years, a large number of image processing methods have been proposed for processing of an image by utilizing the characteristics of an image, such as a facial image, a portrait image, or a figure image. These image processing methods are designed to improve an image processing speed by improving the processability and the configuration of a circuit, or to improve a compression efficiency by applying different processes to the spatial frequency components of the image. Further, in addition to an improvement in the processability, various image processing methods have been proposed in the field of coding. For example, Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2009-186884 discloses a method of improving the processability of a compressed image with regard to a facial image by applying the process to a block unit of the facial image. Furthermore, Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2007-147561 discloses a method of effectively restoring an image by applying a filter process to blocks containing noises, in which restoration processing is performed in units of blocks in an image 82157476af
